

Two-Day Workshop High Impact Journals: Writing and Publishing

The workshop intends to train and encourage students as well as staff to publish their research finding in high impact Journals. Nowadays, it is compulsory for students to publish scientific papers in high impact journals to graduate Master or PhD programs and for Staff to fulfill KPI and get a promotion or perish. This journal writing and publishing workshop will also provide opportunities to the research officers, science officers, and graduate students to gather and exchange ideas to improve their own writings for publication in high impact journals and to contribute to the improvement of their KPI's. UPM as well as other Universities having pressure to publish High Impact Journal papers to increase their international visibility through research publications and to meet the KPI of Universities. This workshop is one of the efforts to encourage and assist researchers, staff and students from UPM and outside UPM to publish their research work in High Impact Journals.

The aim of the workshops is to mentor participants in preparing their research findings for publication in an international journal. This workshop offers an opportunity for students and researchers involved in writing scientific papers to gain an in-depth understanding of academic excellence through journal publication and overcoming challenges in publishing high impact journal papers. Participants will learn the needs to publish in Q1 and Q2 journals, how to build up the article before submission, how to choose the right journal, how to submit a paper to journals, how to reply reviewer comments and proofreading.
